

*Where
workspace*

meets textile design

Workspaces that adapt to the way people work while enhancing the character of the workplace.

 ahrend

BYBORRE

More than just a workspace

People come to the office to focus, connect, collaborate and find inspiration.

That is why a workplace should be more than functional. It should support different ways of working while reinforcing the identity of an organisation.

Ahrend Cerene creates dedicated spaces for focused work, meetings, calls and collaboration within open-plan environments.

With BYBORRE's customisable textile finishes, the office pod takes on a new dimension.

Colour, texture, tactility and rhythm enrich the design, transforming Ahrend Cerene into more than a functional space. It becomes an architectural element that enhances the interior concept and adds character to the workplace.

Design Ahrend Cerene: Basten Leijh

An office pod that does more than perform.

Character, woven into every detail

With Ahrend Cerene × BYBORRE, the office pod becomes a canvas for design.

Thanks to BYBORRE's creative freedom, Ahrend Cerene can be tailored to complement an interior concept, material palette and organisational identity. From understated tone-on-tone schemes to bold graphic expressions.

The pod can blend seamlessly into its surroundings or serve as a striking architectural statement. As a result, Ahrend Cerene becomes not only a place for focus and collaboration, but an integral part of the overall design.

*From functional space to design
statement.*

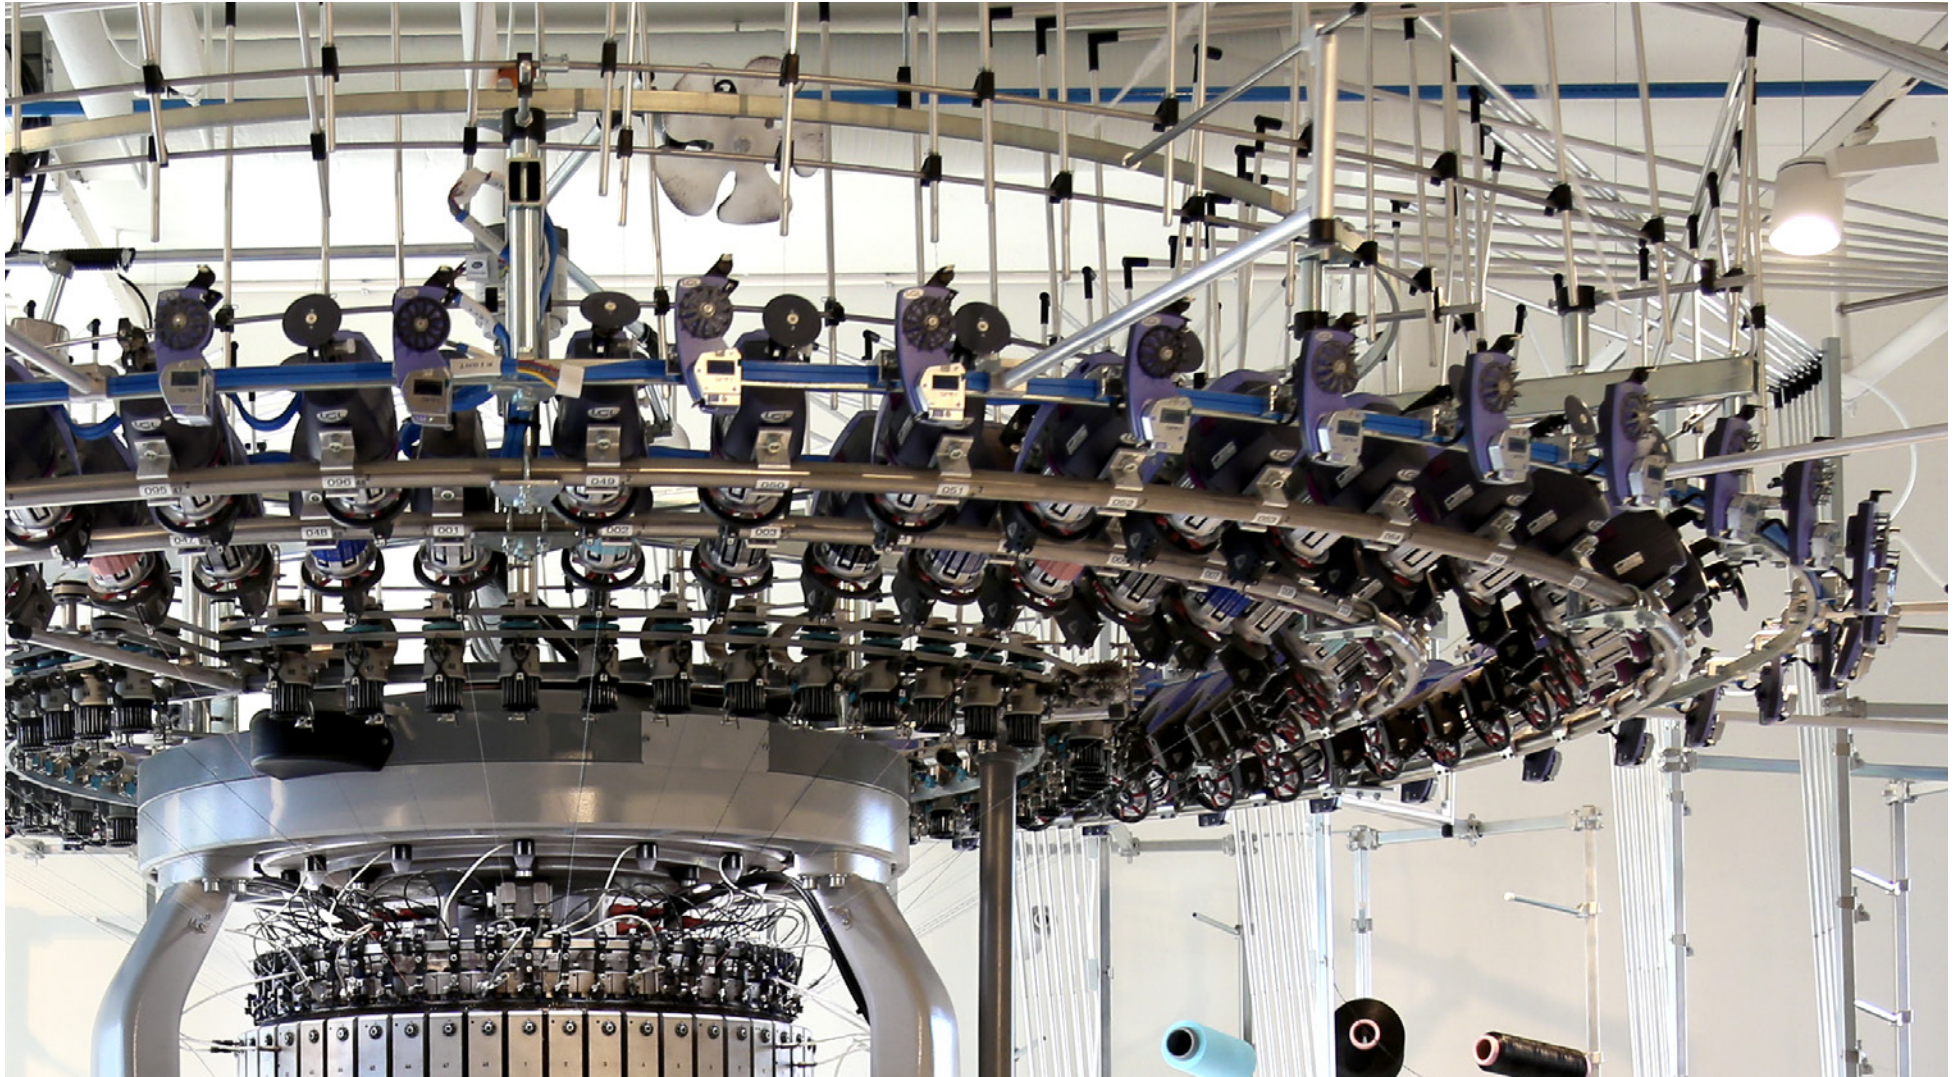

Two Dutch pioneers

One shared vision

Ahrend and BYBORRE share a common belief: exceptional design is created when functionality, aesthetics and sustainability come together.

Ahrend develops workplace solutions that support a wide variety of working styles. With products such as Ahrend Cerene, organisations can create spaces for focus, privacy, collaboration and connection within open and flexible work environments.

BYBORRE develops innovative textiles that give designers the freedom to tailor colour, material, texture and pattern to the specific needs of a project.

Together, they present a new perspective on the office pod. Not simply as a place for focus and privacy, but as an integral part of workplace architecture.

Where workplace design and textile innovation meet.

Rooted in the Netherlands, woven into design

To showcase the design freedom of Ahrend Cerene × BYBORRE, artist and illustrator Viktor Hachmang was invited to approach the office pod as a blank canvas.

The Dutch roots of Ahrend, BYBORRE and Hachmang come together in a single textile design.

*Not a landscape depicted,
but a landscape translated into textile.*

Rather than capturing the perfect postcard image of the Netherlands, Hachmang found inspiration in the landscapes that often go unnoticed. Water, wind, reeds, shifting skies and natural textures. Elements in constant motion that together define the character of the Dutch landscape.

BYBORRE translated Hachmang's hand-drawn visual language into an innovative knitted textile where colour, texture and depth converge. The result is a graphic interpretation of the Dutch landscape. Recognisable in atmosphere and inspiration, yet transformed into a non-directional, abstract design. Rather than creating a literal representation of nature, the textile offers depth, richness and space for interpretation.

From soft neutrals to deep blues, the design does not simply reference nature. It brings its essence into the space.

Your vision, woven into textile

Every space tells a different story. That is why BYBORRE offers extensive opportunities for personalisation. Start from an existing collection, such as Viktor Hachmang's design, or develop an entirely bespoke textile based on your own creative vision.

Align colour, pattern, texture and three-dimensional effects with the interior concept, material palette and organisational identity. From understated and refined to bold and expressive. From a subtle part of the space to its defining focal point.

Designed with purpose, down to every fibre

BYBORRE®
Viktor Textile Passport

A03 KNIT
Attachment only, three-layered knit with polyester fill.

TEXTILE COMPOSITION

- ⊗ Polyester 65%
- ⊗ Recycled Polyester 35%
- ✿ Wool 0%
- ⊗ Nylon 0%

TEXTILE FOOTPRINT

RAW MATERIALS
Italy

MAIN YARN
Italy, Germany

SAMPLING
the Netherlands

PROTOTYPING
Belgium (Lava Textiles)

OUR TEXTILES COMPARED TO CONVENTIONAL TEXTILES

BYBORRE textiles	Conventional textiles
- 31.41%	- 18.91%
19.45 kgCO2eq	7046 Liter water
	11.94 kWh energy

YARN CERTIFICATIONS

OEKO-TEX® STANDARD 100

Go to byborm.com or contact: sales@byborm.com

Ahrend Cerene is designed for long-term use. Modular, adaptable and built to support changing ways of working.

BYBORRE complements this with on-demand textiles developed specifically for individual projects, helping to avoid unnecessary overproduction.

Both brands are committed to transparency in materials and manufacturing. This ambition is reflected in Ahrend Cerene's sustainability sheets and BYBORRE's textile passports.

Making visible not only what a product looks like, but also what it is made from and how it has been produced.

*Transparency
by design.*

Designer's guide

1. Choose your Ahrend Cerene

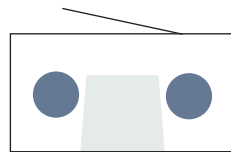

Select the model that best suits the intended use of the space:

- Cerene Call (1 person)
- Cerene Chat (2 people)
- Cerene Meet (4 people)
- Cerene Meet XL (6-8 people)

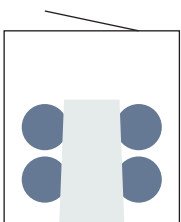

Then decide whether the textile finish will be applied to the interior, exterior or both.

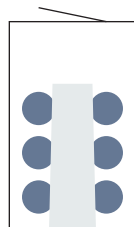

Cerene Call — 1 person

Cerene Chat — 2 people

Cerene Meet — 4 people

Cerene Meet XL — 6-8 people

2. Choose your textile route

BYBORRE Textile Room

Start from an existing collection and configure the textile to suit your design ambitions. Choose from carefully developed designs by BYBORRE and renowned designers such as Viktor Hachmang, then adapt colours, tones and character to complement your interior concept.

BYBORRE Design Studio

Looking for complete creative freedom? Develop a unique textile together with BYBORRE from the ground up. From pattern and structure to colour and material expression, every detail is tailored to your project, ensuring a seamless fit with the identity and design vision of the space.

3. Bring your design vision into the space

Use colour, texture, pattern and tactility to make Ahrend Cerene an integral part of the interior concept. From subtle integration to a bold architectural statement.

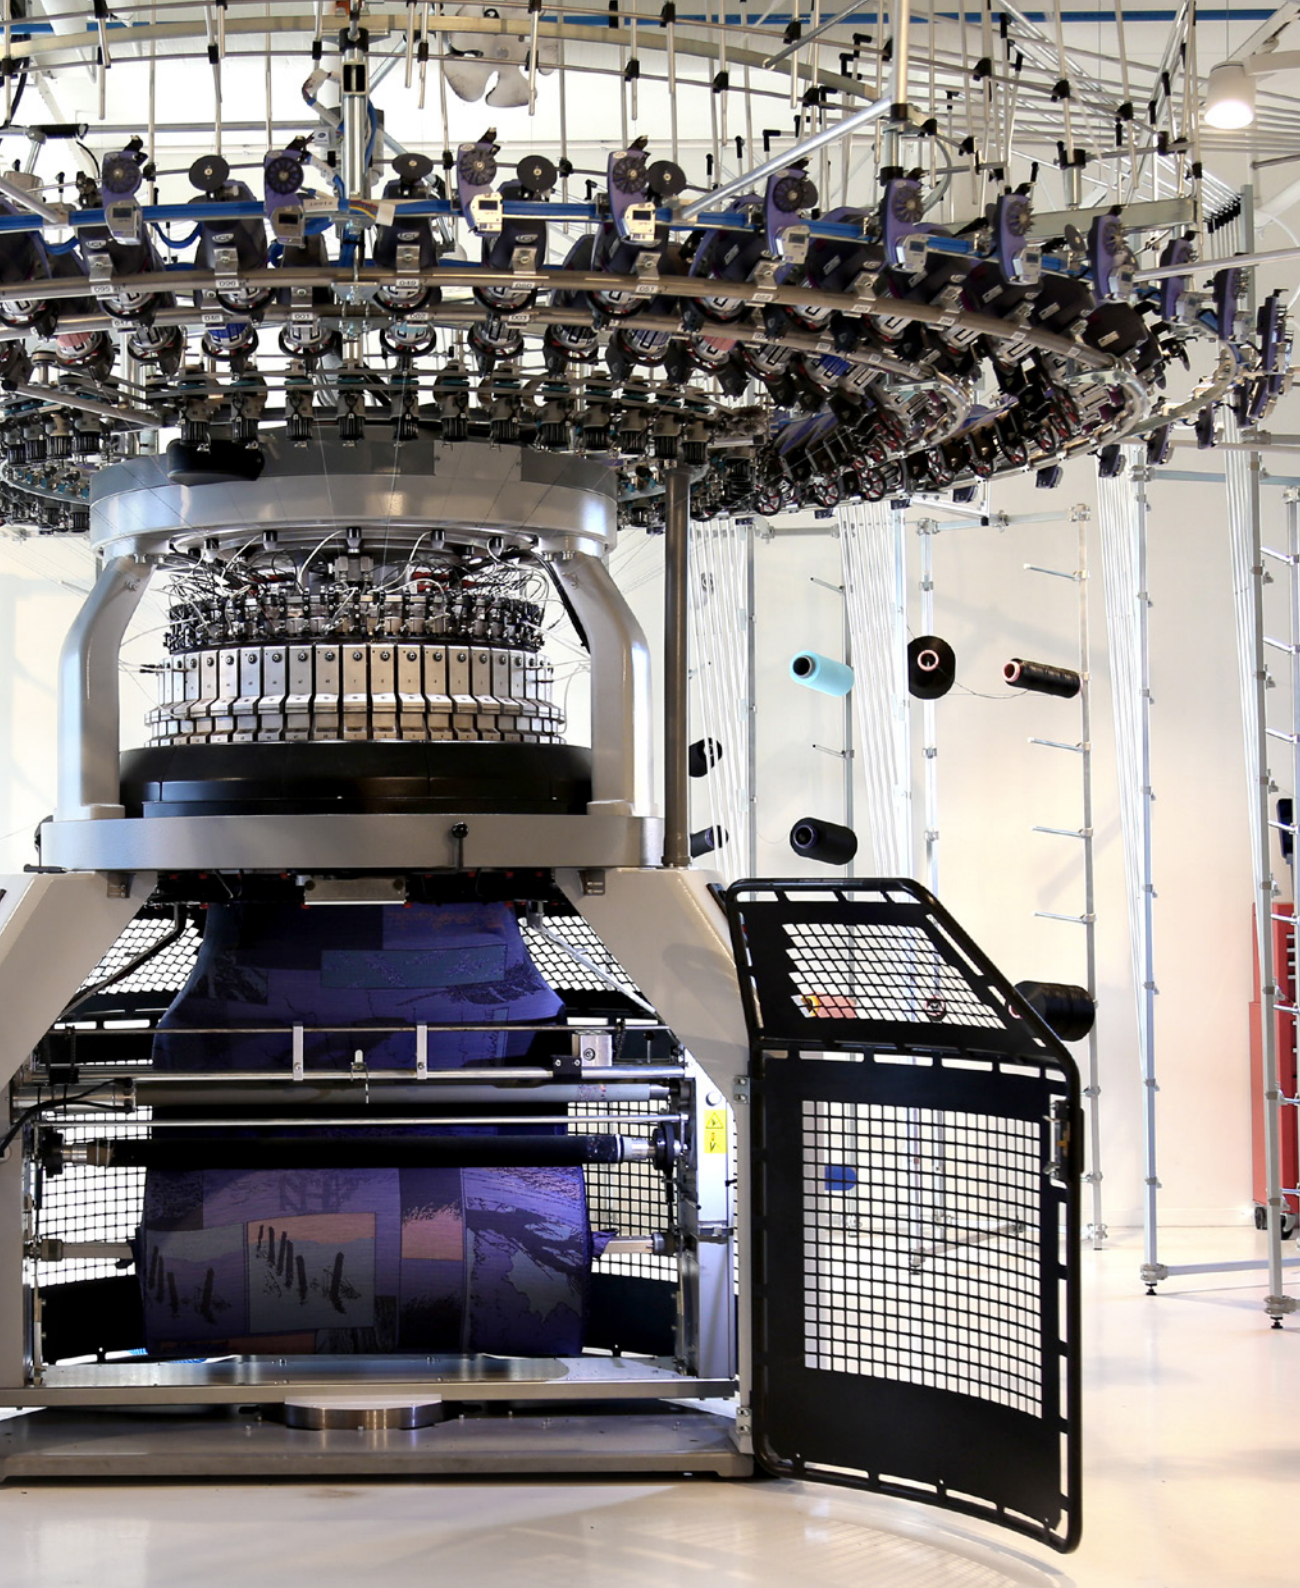

Align the design with:

- Your organisation's identity
- The material palette of the space
- The desired atmosphere and experience
- The interior architecture
- The role the office pod plays within the overall design

4. Extend your design language

Other furniture within the Ahrend collection can also be upholstered in BYBORRE textiles. This enables a single design vision to be expressed across multiple interior elements, creating a coherent and distinctive environment.

Good to know

Indicative lead time

10-12 weeks for the production of both the office pod and the textile.

Minimum order quantity

30 metres of textile, sufficient to upholster the exterior of four Ahrend Cerene Call or Chat pods.

Samples

Samples are available for review and approval before an order is placed.

Technical feasibility

Assessed by Ahrend on a project-by-project basis.

Pricing

Pricing depends on:

- Selected Ahrend Cerene model
- Chosen textile
- Number of metres required
- Quantity of office pods and other furniture
- Upholstery, installation and transport requirements

A woman with blonde hair, wearing a purple top, is sitting inside a modern glass office pod. She is smiling and looking at a silver laptop. The pod has a blue patterned curtain on the left side. The background shows a modern office interior with white walls and a glass ceiling.

Space to focus

Freedom to design

With Ahrend Cerene × BYBORRE, the office pod takes on a new role within the interior. A space for focus, collaboration and privacy, enriched with colour, texture, tactility and character.

Your design vision translated into textile.
Your identity expressed in space.

Developed by BYBORRE.
Brought to life in Ahrend Cerene.

Curious to discover how Ahrend Cerene × BYBORRE could enhance your project?

Our specialists would be delighted to explore the possibilities with you. Contact your Ahrend account manager or schedule an appointment.

Vitalising Workspaces